STRANGE DEATH OF A SCHOOLGIRL

AWKWARD POSITION OF A YOUNG MEDICAL STUDENT, HER FRIEND-AN AUTOPSY

Helen Potts, a student at the Comstock Select Boarding School, No. 32 West Fortieth-st., died vesterday morning at 11 o'clock from the effect of an overdose of morphine, taken to procure relief from insomnia, due to overstudy, it is believed Miss Potts was the daughter of George H. Potts, family, the relatives, the President and his Cabinet and | and has an office at No. 40 Wall-st. She entered the school a year ago to take a special course of study in music and languages. She was a pretty girl, small in figure, and had a bright, sunny disposition that made her a general favorite. She had an exceptionally fine voice, and often delighted her friends at the public and private re ceptions at the school with her singing. studied hard with the expectation of being gradu ated this year. worked energetically for four hours, and at 3 o'clock yesterday morning their efforts were rewarded by returning signs of life.

The patient vomited treely, consciousness was restored, her respiration became normal, and when the doctors went home she was considered to be out of danger and on the road to recovery. The physicians had hardly got comfortably settled in their homes when they were aroused again by a messenger from Mrs. Day with a report that Mas Potts had suddedly become worse. While talking with her friends she had fainted. The child of death was on her body when the doctors arrived again. They worked faithfully upon her, using everything known to meetical science to keep the waning spark of life from going out. At 11 o'clock a spasmodic tremer passed through her body. She had fainted, because it is he was dead.

Drs. Kerr and Baner reported the death at the Coroner's office to Chief Clerk Reynolds, and Deputy Coroner Weston viewed the body will show the exact cause. An autops, will show the exact cause, and the body can be removed to Miss Potts home.

It is not known where Miss Potts so the second box of morphine pills, pressuning, of each point and prescriptions which call for poisous special that there was nothing on his books to show that the prescription had been filled a second fine the prescription had been filled a second fine the prescription had been filled a second fine the prescription had been filled as econd filled. for one-sixth of a grain to each pill. This is considered to be a safe dose.

Mr. Harris was greatly distressed over the death of Miss Potts, and would say little about it. He said that the pills were made in accordance with the formula used by his preceptor at the College of Physicans and Surgeons, and he could not understand how their use could have caused death if they were taken in accordance with his directions. The position of Mr. Harris is not a pleasant one. He is not yet a physician and legally qualified to write a prescription. He has not a diploma from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, entitling him to practise medicine. What action the Coroner will take in the matter is not yet determined, but will be settled after the autopsy, and the arrest of Mr. Harris is among the probabilities.

Coroner Schultze visited the school last night and decided that an autopsy was unnecessary. Mrs. Potts was there, having come on from Asbury Park, and the Coroner gave her a permit for the removal of the girl's body to her home. The Coroner also secured some of the pills that had been prescribed for Miss Potts and took them away for analysis.
